

Curator Biographies

Paul Laster (born 1951) is the Adjunct Curator of Photography at MoMA/P.S. 1. His work has been featured in exhibitions at Robbin Lockett Gallery, Chicago (1986); Fashion Moda, Bronx (1985) and Windows on White, New York (1983). Laster attended the University of Houston to study History. He later moved to New York to pursue studying photography at the New School.

Renée Riccardo began her career as an artist but quickly began curating independently. Growing up on Long Island, Riccardo frequently visited New York's many museums and galleries; inspiring her to become more involved with the arts. Riccardo worked alongside Paul Laster as an Adjunct Curator of Photography at MoMa/P.S. 1.