

Catalyst is an exhibition of art works created by alliances between artists and alumni from UIC's School of Art and Design and various community organizations. This year Gallery 400 presents works from Little City, Garfield High School, The Gabrini Green Tutoring Program, The NearNorthWest Arts Council and Peoples Housing Community Arts Program.

This exhibition was established to promote the visual arts at local levels and to foster cooperation and partnerships between community agencies, artists, and arts educators. The UIC School of Art and Design and these agencies are dedicated to encouraging, development and strengthening of community arts programming.
